

EDITORIAL

The Revista San Gregorio team is pleased to present the second special issue, 2025, reaffirming our commitment to excellence in disseminating scientific knowledge. The trust and support of the academic community have been fundamental to the growth of our journal, motivating us to uphold high standards of quality and editorial rigor.

In this special edition, we take pride in the diversity of contributions received, with 53 authors. Of these, 54% come from national institutions, while 46% represent prestigious international universities. The participating international institutions include Universidad de Almería, España; Universidad de La Habana, Cuba; Universidad César Vallejo, Universidad Nacional de Educación Enrique Guzmán y Valle, Perú; Corporación Unificada Nacional de Educación Superior, Universidad Surcolombiana, Colombia; Universidad Autónoma de Coahuila, Instituto Tecnológico y de Estudios Superiores de Monterrey, Tecnológico Nacional de México, Instituto Tecnológico de Ciudad Valles, México.

Likewise, we are honored to have the participation of highly relevant Ecuadorian institutions, such as the Universidad de Guayaquil, Universidad Andina Simón Bolívar, Universidad de Especialidades Espíritu Santo, Escuela Superior Politécnica Agropecuaria de Manabí, Universidad Técnica de Manabí, Pontificia Universidad Católica del Ecuador, Universidad Estatal del Sur de Manabí, and Universidad San Gregorio de Portoviejo.

The presence of these national and international universities in our publication reflects the quality and reach of the research presented and strengthens academic collaboration in the scientific field.

We remain steadfast in our mission to serve as a platform for disseminating high-impact research, contributing to advancing knowledge across various disciplines. We extend our gratitude to all the authors, reviewers, readers, and researchers who have contributed to this joint effort and the editorial team, whose dedication has been key to maintaining the standards of excellence that define us.

Revista San Gregorio will continue to promote scientific knowledge and consolidate a rigorous, open, and accessible academic publishing space for the global research community.

Editorial Team
Revista San Gregorio